WHY I CHOSE TO JOIN THE TRAINING???

To begin with, its all started from the SLIM Program that was held in UMS Sabah. So, I went there hoping to find an opportunities & there u go, I met Mr Andy which is now my IO & had an interview with him. A few days later, I got a phone call that I was chosen to join the training (Great Eastern). Decision time!! Financially I have no problem, but going there (Johor) alone is something new for me. In fact, rumors say it's a 50/50 chance to my career. Nothing is certain about the outcome yet. So, I was thinking quite hard for a moment about this. What are the triggers?? My past regrets!!! Give up/ let go before even trying. I don't want to have the same regret anymore. I am more afraid of being regret rather than how things will turn out to be after the training. Secondly, I want to go out from my comfort zone, I don't want to stuck in one place forever. There is so much to learn outside & u never know how the knowledge can change you if you are willing to learn. So, I challenge myself!!

LET'S BEGIN!!!

They say the first step is always the hardest part of all. But believe me, once you get through it, it will become a piece of cake for you. I made my first step coming all the way from Sabah to Johor for the first time, so, I succeed in challenging myself. First day in Johor, I met with all the other trainees which is soon become my friends. So, we did all the self introduction together with each of our IO. Its nerve breaking but fun.

CLASS LIKE NEVER BEFORE

Well, attend daily class is a norm but what makes it different is that, you don't feel the tense while being in class here. Something of an added value throughout the training is that, you will have the chances to learn from those with loaded experiences of making success. They come from different background with different stories that will lift up your motivation. They set the example of their life reality from zero to hero for you to learn.

BONDING TIME!!

END OF TRAINING

WRAP UP

At the end of the training, there are so much to thanks. I feel content with everything that I have learn throughout the training. Highest satisfaction I must say. I learned something that I never learn in classes before. All the knowledge that I have gained from the training will become my weapon to succeed in this industry. I have no regret of joining this training. So, never refrain yourself from doing whatever that can help you to success in life.
